

MISS SHONTS TO BE THE BRIDE OF FRENCH DUKE

Her Engagement to Chaumes, Long Expected, Is Now Formally Announced.

HIS TITLES ANCIENT.

At 30 He Has Already Squandered Two Fortunes, Say Gossips of Paris.

Society learned definitely to-day that Miss Theodore Shonts is to wed Emmanuel Theodore Bernard Marie d'Alberty de Laynes d'Ally ninth Duc de Chaumes et de Piquigny and Marquis d'Aigueu, who also has a title as Prince and a few others of Italian and Spanish nobility to supplement those bestowed on his family by France.

The announcement of the engagement has been issued by the bride's father, Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough-Metropolitan. The wedding will take place in January at the home of the Shontses, No. 123 East Thirty-third street.

It will be attended by a number of the members of the duke's family, who will come from France for the purpose. The Duke will sail from New York on Thursday for France after having spent several weeks in New York as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Shonts.

Miss Shonts, who is eighteen in March, is the youngest daughter and one of the prettiest girls in New York. The courtship of the Duke was romantic and persistent. He and Miss Shonts met about a year ago in London shortly after she and her sister, Miss Margaret, had been presented at court by Ambassador Reid by special request of President Roosevelt.

Miss Theodore was followed to this country by the Duke, who visited at the Shonts home in Washington for several weeks and then returned abroad. Soon afterward the Misses Shonts and their mother again went to Europe, where, in Paris, the Duke was warmly attentive to the American girl.

Followed Her Home. Once more he followed her to this country, arriving in September last, and has since been entertained at Washington by the Shonts family and their friends.

The engagement of the Duke and Miss Shonts has many times been reported as a fact, but in each instance it was denied in turn by every member of the family, and with special emphasis by Mr. Shonts, when he was Chairman of the Panama Canal Commission.

The Duke is thirty years old. He has a house in Paris and a hereditary castle in one of the French provinces, but his income is small, and he has for years been seeking a rich American wife. He was once engaged to Miss Eva Gohard, daughter of William Gohard, of New York, who is said to have aided him pecuniarily but to have finally broken her engagement to him.

"Gay and Wasteful." Paris accredits the Duke with being one of the gayest of his nobility and with having already wasted two inheritances. Unquestionably his family is one of the noblest, not only in France, but in all Europe. He is originally a patrician family in Italy, but settled in France, and is also one of the most ancient families of Spain. The Duke's sister is the wife of Louis de Crosol, fourth-son Duc d'Uzes, whose sister, wife of the Duc de Laynes, is said to have arranged the match between her brother-in-law and Miss Shonts.

NO PENSIONS FOR STATE PROFESSORS

Carnegie Foundation Trustees Say Commonwealth Should Provide for Them

The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Foundation, for the Advancement of Teachers, opened at the rooms of the Foundation, at No. 542 Fifth avenue, to-day. Charles William Eliot, chairman of the Board of Trustees and President of Harvard, presided.

The following members of the board, all college and university presidents, were among those who attended: Nicholas Murray Butler, Columbia; Edwin B. Craighead, Tulane University; New Orleans; George H. Denay, Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va.; Woodrow Wilson, Princeton; Jacob Gould Schurman, Cornell; L. Clark Seelye, Smith College, Northampton, Mass.; Charles C. Harrison, University of Pennsylvania; David Starr Jordan, Leland Stanford University, Calif.; Henry C. King, Oberlin College, Ohio; William Brewster, McGill University, Montreal; and Henry F. Phelps, Boston "Tech."

The morning was occupied by a discussion as to the relation of the Carnegie Foundation to State Universities. He was the contention of President Eliot, who is president of the Foundation, that professors of the universities should not receive pensions from the Foundation.

He said he believed that the State should make provision for professors in State universities, because if the Foundation pensioned them it would establish a precedent that would relieve the State of the responsibility.

POLICEMAN HURT IN SAVING LIFE OF AGED WOMAN

Lifts Her From Path of Speeding Horse and Is Himself Run Over.

To save an old woman from being run down and killed, Patrolman William Winklemeyer, of the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station, threw himself in the way of a recklessly driven delivery wagon at One Hundred and Fifteenth street and Eighth avenue to-day and was dangerously hurt.

Winklemeyer had just left Roundman McNulty when he saw a feeble old woman tottering across the avenue. She was directly in the path of the wagon coming at headlong speed. When the old lady heard the clatter of the horse's hoofs she stopped, seemingly unable to go farther.

The horse was not five feet from her when the policeman sprang across the street and lifted her out of the way. Before he could step aside himself the shaft struck him and threw him beneath the horse's feet. He was kicked and stepped on, and the wheel of the wagon passed over him. His jaw was broken, several ribs fractured and there may be serious internal injuries.

Roundman McNulty stopped the flying horse, which belongs to Samuel Baumil, a butcher, and arrested Gustave Fulda the driver. Then he hurried to the assistance of Winklemeyer and carried him to a drug store. The policeman was unconscious, and McNulty sent in a hurry call for an ambulance to the J. Hood Wright Hospital.

The hurry call failed to bring any response from the hospital, and after waiting for half an hour the roundman was compelled to send for a patrol wagon in which the injured man was taken to the hospital. Though it is believed he will recover, it will be many weeks before he is able to return to duty.

The old woman whose life the policeman saved hobbled away without waiting to give any one her name.

MOTHER FALLS WITH BABY BENEATH HORSE'S HOOF.

Child Crushed to Death by Truck—The Woman, Trampled, May Die.

Mrs. Mollie Separath, a young wife, of No. 24 East Sixty-seventh street, was crossing Second avenue at Seventy-ninth street yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, carrying her year-old baby boy. She became confused when she reached the middle of the street, lost her footing and fell under the hoofs of a heavy team of horses.

She strove to save the child, but it rolled forward under the wheel of the right-hand horse, which the driver, Samuel Baumil, of the horse, trampled the mother, injuring her internally and fracturing her skull. The driver, Fredel, of No. 13 Montrose avenue, Brooklyn, was a general alarm was sent out by the police for the driver's arrest.

GOVERNOR VISITS ASYLUM FOR INSANE

Inspects Institution on Ward's Island, Apparently With No Advance Notice.

Gov. Hughes, with his military secretary, Col. George C. Treadwell, and several charity officials, to-day inspected the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane on Ward's Island.

In the party were former Judge William A. Kenner, President of the Board of Managers of the hospital; Dr. William Mabson, Superintendent of the hospital; Dr. Ferris, President of the State Commission of Lunacy; and Commissioner of Charities Hebbard.

The party boarded the steamboat Wanderer at the Charities Department pier, foot of East Twenty-ninth street. Dr. Mabson, Mr. Hebbard and the rest of the party were waiting at the pier for the Governor and his secretary.

Col. Treadwell said that Gov. Hughes intended to remain in the city several days and that he would inspect various municipal and State institutions. The visit to the asylum was evidently unexpected by any one except those in the party of a few employees on the pier recognized Gov. Hughes and seemed to be greatly surprised.

A reconciliation having been effected between Charles P. Buchanan and his third wife, Martha V. Louise Buchanan, who was suing him for an absolute divorce, an order was entered yesterday by Justice Seabury, of the Supreme Court, permitting the discontinuance of the suit. Mr. Buchanan must pay within five days $127.50 fees to Donald McLean, the referee, and the stenographer. Buchanan's first wife was Adelaide Taylor, daughter of William Taylor, a Wall street broker. They eloped. They had three children. She obtained a divorce. The second Mrs. Buchanan won a divorce in 1905.

FOUGHT TO KEEP A BLAZE FROM DYNAMITE MAGAZINE.

Long Island City Firemen Have an Uneasy Half Hour in Tunnel Shops.

The Long Island City firemen had an uneasy half hour to-day while extinguishing a fire that partly consumed a tool house and repair shop in the shaft yard of the Pennsylvania tunnel, at East and Borden avenues. Just 300 feet away was located the dynamite magazine, and all the time that they played their hose lines on the tool shed the firemen looked with fear and trembling in the direction of the other structure.

The police reserves formed a line many blocks away from the fire, partly for the protection of the public and also in their own interest. The fire was put out without any disturbances from the explosive headquarters.
